About the Conference

The main topics of the workshop are Geodiversity, Geoconservation, Geoheritage, Geotourism and Geohazards. These topics aim to promote wider awareness of affected communities and of the protection of our geological and geomorphological heritage. It will provide the framework and training for the practical application of landscape interpretation, conservation and management to geoparks and similar sites. Taiwan is an outstanding area where landscapes are very special and dynamic. This workshop will provide a platform for researches, managers and governors to discuss the many inter-related issues that surround these topics, and share their experiences in landscape conservation.

Location

Taipei, the capital of Taiwan, is located within the Taipei Basin of Northern Taiwan on the bank of the Tamsui River. It has emerged as a lovely city with more than 3.5 million residents and is also the political and economic centre of Taiwan. During the winter months, temperatures of between 25° and 30° Celcius may be expected. In September, the weather is usually warm and pleasant.

Invitation

Geoscientists, tourism practitioners, protected area managers, academics and members of research and other institutions are invited to attend this workshop. The seminar will be a forum for national and international experts on the above subjects. The programme includes talks and discussions followed by deliberations for recommendations. Moreover, poster sessions will be organized as well.

Papers

Abstracts are invited for presentation in the workshop. The abstract for the conference booklet should be typed with double space in Times Roman (12 Font Size) and contain the title of the paper, name of the author(s), affiliation, text, and references. The manuscript should be sent to the convener as e-mail attachment latest by July 31st, 2011 (e-mail address: jclin@ntu.edu.tw).

Poster presentations should be indicated in the registration form. The size of the poster should not exceed A0.
